

DON'T

LET YOUR KITTENS
HAVE  KITTENS

Did you know?

Kittens can begin to breed from just four months of age. Traditionally cats were neutered from six months of age but scientific data indicates that there are no disadvantages in neutering earlier. Cats Protection recommends that pet kittens are neutered at four months of age to help stop the problem of overpopulation.

Please don't leave it too late. Find your nearest earlier neutering practice on our website and book your kitten's neutering appointment today. It is the most important action you can take to help the wider cat population.

To find out more visit:

<http://www.cats.org.uk/early-neutering>

Reg Charity
203644 (England and Wales)
SC037711 (Scotland)

